

JEAN ELIOT'S WEEKLY CHRONICLE OF CAPITAL SOCIETY

(Continued from Page Ten.)
 stopping off for a series of visits at sundry places on the Atlantic coast.
 Miss Anne Gordon to be
 One of Season's Debutantes.
 Anne Gordon, Mrs. George Barnett's second daughter, who had a preliminary fling in society last year when her sister, Lelia Gordon, was presented, is also to be a debutante this year, I'm told. Which is a matter of congratulation for all the debutante group, the parties which General and Mrs. Barnett give at the Marine Barracks being something to write large in Washington's social history. The commandant's house at the barracks is charmingly arranged for entertaining and then there's the band room which can be requisitioned whenever there's a big party like a coming out tea or a ball on the carpet.

 The tentative list of buds also includes Peggy Martin, daughter of Mrs. Frank Martin, and Mrs. William Gerry Morgan's two daughters, Ruth and Myra Morgan; Marcia Chapin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Chapin; Marion Drain, Lucy Thea Koe Colquhoun, Delphine Hoyl and Lindsay Lomas Wood, Lindsay Wood, who is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Waddy Wood and a niece of Anne Lomas, is one of the most torchlighted of the buds and has already selected the date—December 17—for her coming out tea.

 Marion Drain expects to have her debut party some time early in December, but nothing definite has been arranged yet. Indeed, she's only recently come back to town after spending the summer visiting in New York and Pennsylvania. She's one of Col. and Mrs. James A. Drain's bevy of charming daughters and her sister, Gertrude Virginia Drain, made her debut last year. Marion is an accomplished horsewoman, belongs to the Riding and Hunt Club and is almost always one of the field for the cross country rides "staged" by the club.

Expected to Return From Deer Park this Week
 Delphine Hoyl is still at Deer Park, Md. with her father, Col. Charles H. Hoyl, and her two aunts, but they are all expected back this week and then plans will be made for her coming out. She's got a bad case of "West Point fever"—her brother, Charles H. Hoyl, Jr., is at the Military Academy, you know—and I rather suspect that she'll be numbered among the absentees a good deal this winter. Indeed, she's already making final arrangements to go up to the Academy for the Thanksgiving week. The Koe Colquhouns were telling me about Delphine's plans. Mrs. Colquhoun, you know, is the little lady's sister—and they, by the way, have just recently come back after a visit with Colonel Hoyl at Deer Park. Lucy Kinsolving is the daughter of Bishop Kinsolving of Brazil. Mrs. Kinsolving came on here last winter to meet her daughter, who was in school, and they had an apartment in the St. Nicholas. And now they've decided to stay on here another winter in order that Lucy may have a little flutter in society.

The Senatorial contingent will have at least one bud this season, a very popular bud, Katherine Sutherland; and I'm told that Agnes Soper also coming out here. She's the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Guy Scott and a granddaughter of former Senator Nathan Scott of West Virginia. For the moment, however, she and the Sutherland family has had to give precedence to the brides, as she marries Virginia Sutherland and Leonard Scott, Donald McRae, U. S. A., is scheduled for some time this autumn, and Capt. Richard K. Sutherland, U. S. A., will wed Josephine Whitfield of Chattanooga, Tenn., the ceremony taking place some time in October, I believe.

Miss Millicent Rogers
 Also on the List.
 Millicent Rogers, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Henry Huddleston Rogers, should also be numbered among the Washington debutantes, although she will first be presented to society in New York. Indeed, she had a sort of preliminary debut this summer at Southampton, where Colonel and Mrs. Rogers gave a perfectly wonderful party for her. I don't remember any bud in recent years who has had quite such a cosmopolitan debut, except Margaret Fahnstoch, now Mrs. Sylvester Stone, who was formally presented in Newport in Baltimore, where her grandmother, Mrs. Snowden Andrews lives—and in Washington, in addition to having several big parties given for her in New York by her various uncles and aunts. The Rogers, you know, are New Yorkers who came to Washington during the war and liked it well enough to buy a house and settle down as more or less permanent residents. Their plan is, I believe, to give Millicent her coming out in New York early in the winter. Then to bring her on here for the season.

If Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt's daughter, Cornelia Vanderbilt, makes her debut this winter, she has been widely predicted, she, too, will undoubtedly divide her time between Washington and New York. It would be too much to expect any Vanderbilt bud to forego being presented in New York, where the Vanderbilt name is one to conjure with and where there are scores of kinsfolk to entertain for her and make her have a perfectly wonderful time. On the other hand, Mrs. George Vanderbilt is the one member of the family in whom Washington really

Senators and Mrs. Shields
 Announce Daughter's Marriage.
 On Thursday cards arrived from Senator and Mrs. John K. Shields announcing the marriage of their daughter, Jeannette Cowan, and Lieut. Col. Clement C. Heth, U. S. A., which had been solemnized the day before, and letters giving a fuller account of the wedding followed shortly. The ceremony was at Clinchdale—until I received the wedding announcement I had thought the place was Princedale—Senator and Mrs. Shields' beautiful plantation near Tate Springs, Tenn., and took place beneath two magnificent oaks, which have stood sentinel over the sweeping lawns of Clinchdale for centuries.
 I wish I might have seen Jeannette Cowan in her wedding gown, for she's a winsome little thing and must have looked quite adorable in her bridal white, all mistled over with a voluminous tulle veil. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Cowan, was her matron of honor and she wore a most beautiful gown of tulle and satin, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Little Virginia Spillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Spillman, of Knoxville, carried the white satin cushion on which Miss Cowan and Colonel Heth knelt to plight their troth. The Rev. Walter C. Whitaker, of St. John's Episcopal Church, Knoxville, performed the ceremony and Henry Tyler, of East Redford, Va., was best man. Colonel Heth was in uniform.
 After their wedding journey the young couple will set for Honolulu, where Colonel Heth is to be stationed. He is in the regular army, you know, and has but recently returned from service in France. He's the son of Capt. Stockton Heth, of Blacksburg, Va., a graduate of the University of Virginia, where he took honors both in scholarship and in athletics, and has long been identified with Washington.
 His little bride was educated in Switzerland, and made her debut in Washington three years ago. Since that time she has been here for part of every winter, although she is rather preferred to spend most of her time in Tennessee.

Another wedding of no little interest in Washington took place in New York on Thursday, when Wilhelmina Schaff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner, became the bride of a Washington school man, H. G. Reer. The Rev. W. L. Hughes performed the ceremony. The bride's brother, J. Howard Schaff, was has a proprietary interest. Since her husband's death she has spent much of her time in the handsome widowed old house in a street which she owns and her daughter has grown up with a lot of the Washington girls who are coming out this year.

MISS ELENA CALDERON, Daughter of the minister of Bolivia, taking her first airplane flight.

 Last year Mrs. Vanderbilt's house was rented to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Jr., of New York, and she was either in New York or in the South all winter. Recently Mrs. Vanderbilt and Cornelia have been visiting at Newport and a number of very chic young people's parties were given for the bud. Cornelia has grown up tall like her mother, and with much of her dignity and charm of manner.

Arthur Mann Engaged to Elizabeth Oriskany.
 And now I want to pass on a bit of news in which I'm sure you will be interested—the announcement of Arthur Mann's engagement to Elizabeth Oriskany, a Scotch girl, who is, I hear, a very delightful person. Mr. Mann has been abroad for the last eighteen months, representing first the United Press Association and later the Chicago Tribune. But he's a Washington boy, born and bred, the son of Elias Mann, who has been an official of the Treasury Department for many years, and he "broke into" the newspaper game in Washington.
 He went overseas when the German ambassador was recalled, Count von Bernstorff having made the request that if the United Press were sending a man over on the ship with him, Mr. Mann be assigned to the job. Since that time he's had a number of interesting details, visiting Denmark, Sweden and France, but spending most of his time in London. At present he's in Russia, investigating conditions for the Tribune, and on his return to England his marriage will take place.
 Miss Oriskany is the daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman and her home is in Dundee, but she's been living in London and it was there that Mr. Mann met, wooed and won her. She's engaged in literary work, writing for a number of the London weeklies and other periodicals.

A new ambassador is a decidedly rare bird and yet in a few weeks the woods about Washington will be full of "em. Viscount Grey of Falloden, the British envoy, is scheduled to sail on September 20 and will arrive here a week or so later. Fortouros Xavier, until recently Brazilian minister at London, is coming over to serve as Brazilian ambassador to the United States. Japan has announced that she is sending her vice secretary of foreign affairs, Kijuro Shidehara, to succeed Viscount Ishii as ambassador at Washington. And last but not least, Federico Alfonso Peset, who used to be minister of Peru, is coming back as Peru's ambassador, after having retired from the diplomatic service for a period of several years.
 The Brazilian embassy has no information as to the date of Senor Xavier's arrival, nor is it known how much of a household he will bring with him when he does come. The impression seems to be that he is a bachelor, but nobody seems to actually know very much about him. Mr. Shidehara is married and has children, but the Japanese embassy is in doubt as to whether he will bring his family with him to this country. The Pesetas are due to arrive here next month from Peru. Senor Peset was here not so very long ago as special agent for the Peruvian government and was instrumental in securing President Leguia's recognition by the United States; and now, I take it, he has gone home to report.

Belgium also has a new ambassador, or rather her present envoy, Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, is to be given ambassadorial rank—it isn't official yet although everybody seems to be giving him the higher title by courtesy. And when his bride, who was formerly Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Cary and who is now in New York, joins him here tomorrow they will start at once upon the absorbing business of house hunting.
 Come to think of it, quite a game of pussy-wants-a-corner is going on among the diplomats. The Brazilian embassy is now established at 1803 11th street, the home of the late Henry Adams, the brilliant, embittered and, during his late years, reclusive son of Charles Francis Adams, who erected to the memory of his wife the magnificent monument in Rock Creek Park designed by St. Gaudens, and known to art lovers the world over as "Grief." The Chinese ambassador and Mme. de Mathieu are threatening to move, and the minister of the both man and she was attended by Jessie Hawley, of New York, as maid of honor. The bride wore a smart traveling suit of tricotine serge, with a becoming little hat, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.

 Their wedding trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Canada over Mr. and Mrs. Reed's Scotch girl, who is, I hear, a very delightful person. Mr. Mann has been abroad for the last eighteen months, representing first the United Press Association and later the Chicago Tribune. But he's a Washington boy, born and bred, the son of Elias Mann, who has been an official of the Treasury Department for many years, and he "broke into" the newspaper game in Washington.
 He went overseas when the German ambassador was recalled, Count von Bernstorff having made the request that if the United Press were sending a man over on the ship with him, Mr. Mann be assigned to the job. Since that time he's had a number of interesting details, visiting Denmark, Sweden and France, but spending most of his time in London. At present he's in Russia, investigating conditions for the Tribune, and on his return to England his marriage will take place.
 Miss Oriskany is the daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman and her home is in Dundee, but she's been living in London and it was there that Mr. Mann met, wooed and won her. She's engaged in literary work, writing for a number of the London weeklies and other periodicals.

Belgium also has a new ambassador, or rather her present envoy, Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, is to be given ambassadorial rank—it isn't official yet although everybody seems to be giving him the higher title by courtesy. And when his bride, who was formerly Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Cary and who is now in New York, joins him here tomorrow they will start at once upon the absorbing business of house hunting.
 Come to think of it, quite a game of pussy-wants-a-corner is going on among the diplomats. The Brazilian embassy is now established at 1803 11th street, the home of the late Henry Adams, the brilliant, embittered and, during his late years, reclusive son of Charles Francis Adams, who erected to the memory of his wife the magnificent monument in Rock Creek Park designed by St. Gaudens, and known to art lovers the world over as "Grief." The Chinese ambassador and Mme. de Mathieu are threatening to move, and the minister of the

both man and she was attended by Jessie Hawley, of New York, as maid of honor. The bride wore a smart traveling suit of tricotine serge, with a becoming little hat, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.
 Their wedding trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Canada over Mr. and Mrs. Reed's Scotch girl, who is, I hear, a very delightful person. Mr. Mann has been abroad for the last eighteen months, representing first the United Press Association and later the Chicago Tribune. But he's a Washington boy, born and bred, the son of Elias Mann, who has been an official of the Treasury Department for many years, and he "broke into" the newspaper game in Washington.
 He went overseas when the German ambassador was recalled, Count von Bernstorff having made the request that if the United Press were sending a man over on the ship with him, Mr. Mann be assigned to the job. Since that time he's had a number of interesting details, visiting Denmark, Sweden and France, but spending most of his time in London. At present he's in Russia, investigating conditions for the Tribune, and on his return to England his marriage will take place.
 Miss Oriskany is the daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman and her home is in Dundee, but she's been living in London and it was there that Mr. Mann met, wooed and won her. She's engaged in literary work, writing for a number of the London weeklies and other periodicals.

Belgium also has a new ambassador, or rather her present envoy, Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, is to be given ambassadorial rank—it isn't official yet although everybody seems to be giving him the higher title by courtesy. And when his bride, who was formerly Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Cary and who is now in New York, joins him here tomorrow they will start at once upon the absorbing business of house hunting.
 Come to think of it, quite a game of pussy-wants-a-corner is going on among the diplomats. The Brazilian embassy is now established at 1803 11th street, the home of the late Henry Adams, the brilliant, embittered and, during his late years, reclusive son of Charles Francis Adams, who erected to the memory of his wife the magnificent monument in Rock Creek Park designed by St. Gaudens, and known to art lovers the world over as "Grief." The Chinese ambassador and Mme. de Mathieu are threatening to move, and the minister of the

both man and she was attended by Jessie Hawley, of New York, as maid of honor. The bride wore a smart traveling suit of tricotine serge, with a becoming little hat, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.
 Their wedding trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Canada over Mr. and Mrs. Reed's Scotch girl, who is, I hear, a very delightful person. Mr. Mann has been abroad for the last eighteen months, representing first the United Press Association and later the Chicago Tribune. But he's a Washington boy, born and bred, the son of Elias Mann, who has been an official of the Treasury Department for many years, and he "broke into" the newspaper game in Washington.
 He went overseas when the German ambassador was recalled, Count von Bernstorff having made the request that if the United Press were sending a man over on the ship with him, Mr. Mann be assigned to the job. Since that time he's had a number of interesting details, visiting Denmark, Sweden and France, but spending most of his time in London. At present he's in Russia, investigating conditions for the Tribune, and on his return to England his marriage will take place.
 Miss Oriskany is the daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman and her home is in Dundee, but she's been living in London and it was there that Mr. Mann met, wooed and won her. She's engaged in literary work, writing for a number of the London weeklies and other periodicals.

Belgium also has a new ambassador, or rather her present envoy, Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, is to be given ambassadorial rank—it isn't official yet although everybody seems to be giving him the higher title by courtesy. And when his bride, who was formerly Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Cary and who is now in New York, joins him here tomorrow they will start at once upon the absorbing business of house hunting.
 Come to think of it, quite a game of pussy-wants-a-corner is going on among the diplomats. The Brazilian embassy is now established at 1803 11th street, the home of the late Henry Adams, the brilliant, embittered and, during his late years, reclusive son of Charles Francis Adams, who erected to the memory of his wife the magnificent monument in Rock Creek Park designed by St. Gaudens, and known to art lovers the world over as "Grief." The Chinese ambassador and Mme. de Mathieu are threatening to move, and the minister of the

both man and she was attended by Jessie Hawley, of New York, as maid of honor. The bride wore a smart traveling suit of tricotine serge, with a becoming little hat, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.
 Their wedding trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Canada over Mr. and Mrs. Reed's Scotch girl, who is, I hear, a very delightful person. Mr. Mann has been abroad for the last eighteen months, representing first the United Press Association and later the Chicago Tribune. But he's a Washington boy, born and bred, the son of Elias Mann, who has been an official of the Treasury Department for many years, and he "broke into" the newspaper game in Washington.
 He went overseas when the German ambassador was recalled, Count von Bernstorff having made the request that if the United Press were sending a man over on the ship with him, Mr. Mann be assigned to the job. Since that time he's had a number of interesting details, visiting Denmark, Sweden and France, but spending most of his time in London. At present he's in Russia, investigating conditions for the Tribune, and on his return to England his marriage will take place.
 Miss Oriskany is the daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman and her home is in Dundee, but she's been living in London and it was there that Mr. Mann met, wooed and won her. She's engaged in literary work, writing for a number of the London weeklies and other periodicals.

Belgium also has a new ambassador, or rather her present envoy, Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, is to be given ambassadorial rank—it isn't official yet although everybody seems to be giving him the higher title by courtesy. And when his bride, who was formerly Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Cary and who is now in New York, joins him here tomorrow they will start at once upon the absorbing business of house hunting.
 Come to think of it, quite a game of pussy-wants-a-corner is going on among the diplomats. The Brazilian embassy is now established at 1803 11th street, the home of the late Henry Adams, the brilliant, embittered and, during his late years, reclusive son of Charles Francis Adams, who erected to the memory of his wife the magnificent monument in Rock Creek Park designed by St. Gaudens, and known to art lovers the world over as "Grief." The Chinese ambassador and Mme. de Mathieu are threatening to move, and the minister of the

where he was going, she declared, and without giving her any money.
 Though her husband always contended that he had little money, Mrs. Parker asserted, "his check book discloses that in a most erratic way, for works of art, rare jewels, etc., the defendant has expended upward of $50,000 in the past five years."
 "He has rare works of art, antiques and jewelry stored away in various vaults."
 "About three years ago," Mrs. Parker continued, "the defendant increased the amount of liquor which he had previously consumed, and consumed such large quantities thereof that for a greater part of the day and night he was unable to control himself."

 Dr. Parker appeared in court with counsel, and, at his request, Mrs. Parker's alimony application was adjourned until September 10. Dr. Parker's attorney stated that his client is desirous of a reconciliation, but that Mrs. Parker has declined to assent to it. Dr. Parker's answer, in which it is said, he will deny his wife's charges, will be filed before the case comes up in court again.
 Mrs. Parker, at her home, stated that she was not opposed to a reconciliation with her husband, provided he will discontinue the conduct of which she complained.

GOOD FURS AT LOW PRICES
 The standard upheld by Rosendorf not only assures you of fur styles of distinctiveness, but qualities of dependability which are only possible through our expert knowledge of Furs.
 Natural Minkers Coats.....$110
 Fine dark skins. Values $100.50.....$110
 Seal Coats.....$130 Up
 Natural Squirrel Coats.....$255 Up
 Fine dark blue skins.....$12.50 Up
 Seal Muffs.....$75 Up
 Seal Coats.....$75 Up
 Tasse Squirrel Coats.....$275 Up
 Wolf Scarfs.....$22 Up
 Mink Scarfs.....$27.50 Up
 Fox Scarfs.....$27.00 Up
 All purchases made during this time will be stored free of charge, until wanted later in the season.
 Fur Coats & Wraps ROSENDORF Coats, Muffs, Stoles, Capes
 in a Wide Variety 1213 G Street Opp. Dulin & Martin

"Introductory Sale"
 of newly added lines of merchandise—at prices that "Particularly Please."
Leather Goods and Handbags For Fall Wear
 Fur and Leather Bags, Manufacturers' Outlet Sale, all colors and leathers, well made, $1.15 most with mirrors, at...
 The New Kodak Bag and New Novelty Styles, all colors and shapes. Special at...$1.75
Chiffon Velvet Handbags, in black and colors; newest shapes, pretty metal frames, silk lined and including mirror. Special at...$5.50
White Ivory Toilet and Manicure Sets
 Manicure Sets consist of either 5, 7, or 9 pieces, all well made and new styled merchandise, at $1.95, $2.95, $3.95 and up.
 White Ivory Comb, Brush and Mirror Sets, all boxed, make beautiful gifts; special priced, at $2.95 and up.
 NOTE—A small deposit will secure any set for the holidays. It will pay you to take advantage of this offer on any of our merchandise, as you will save from 20 to 25 per cent.
Heller's
809 SEVENTH ST.
 Established 1858 2 Doors Above H Street.

White Ivory Toilet and Manicure Sets
 Manicure Sets consist of either 5, 7, or 9 pieces, all well made and new styled merchandise, at $1.95, $2.95, $3.95 and up.
 White Ivory Comb, Brush and Mirror Sets, all boxed, make beautiful gifts; special priced, at $2.95 and up.
 NOTE—A small deposit will secure any set for the holidays. It will pay you to take advantage of this offer on any of our merchandise, as you will save from 20 to 25 per cent.
Heller's
809 SEVENTH ST.
 Established 1858 2 Doors Above H Street.

The Secret
 Sentiment's spokesman, beauty's fair toy, Father of Pleasure, Mother of Joy, Fragrant as incense, brilliant as view Cluster of flowers, gathered for you. Words often fail one, jewels prove vain; Don't be discouraged—Try, try again; This is the Message—Learn it with care, "Say it with flowers," tender and fair.
Flowers for Every Occasion
Gude Bros. Co.
 1214 F Street N. W.
 Telephone: Main 4277-78-79—Franklin 6854.
 Member Florists Telegraph Delivery Assn.

Sweaters Reduced
 $12 and $15 Ripple Sweaters, Special.....$10
 $10 and $12 Hand Crocheted Sweaters, Special.....$9
 $7, $8, $9 Sweaters, Sale Price.....$5.85
Sept. FUR Sale
 $45.00 Wolf Scarf.....$22.50
 $50.00 Wolf Scarf.....$25.00
 $35.00 Fox Scarf.....$27.50
 $60.00 Fox Scarf.....$30.00
 $45.00 Fox Scarf.....$22.50
 $70.00 Fox Scarf.....$35.00
 $75.00 Fox Scarf.....$37.50
 $80.00 Fox Scarf.....$40.00
Special Values in Georgette Waists
 $8.00 and $9.00 Georgette Waists.....$4.89
 $9.00 and $10.00 Georgette Waists.....$5.89
 $10.00 and $11.00 Georgette Waists.....$6.89
 $9.00 and $10.00 Dark Blue Georgette Waists.....$5.98
 $3.00 Envelope Chemise.....$1.98
 $4.00 Envelope Chemise.....$2.69
 $5.00 Envelope Chemise.....$3.95
THE NOVELTY SHOP
 MRS. LIBBIE WATSON
 515 11th St. N. W.
 Over the Dutch Inn.
 Open Saturday Evenings Till 8 P. M.

THE EAGLE AMERICAN-CHINESE RESTAURANT
 316 11th St. N. W.
 Business Lunch 45c, 11 to 2 Daily
 Special Dinner, $1.00 to $1.50
 Sunday Dinner, 11:30 A. M. to 2 P. M., Telephone Franklin 7715

Washington Gas Light Company
 (Sales Department)
 419 Tenth Street Northwest

Have Us Put In Your Home---
A MODERN GAS IRON
 So much better than the old way
 Prices $3 to $5
CABINET GAS RANGE
 Cabinet Ranges are now to be had which will meet the needs of the largest families or residences.
GAS WATER HEATER
 We have all kinds, from the type which heats the water in the kitchen boiler to the style which produces hot water instantaneously when the spigot is turned on.
 You May Charge Them and Pay in Small Monthly Sums

Millinery Opening
 Monday, Sept. 15
 Displaying the Latest Creations in Smart Millinery from the foremost designers of Paris and America.
 Large and Small Hats... Gold and Silver Cloths... Fresh Tinted Flowers... Ostrich Plumes in magnificent effects... Monkey Fur Trimmings, Beaver and Velvet... Duvelyn in the softest tones... All the latest shades—
 $5 to $15
NOUVEAU
 932 F Street N. W.
 Metropolitan Theater Bldg.
 Mrs. Ida Walters.

New Velvet Hats
 Made to order. We make a specialty of covering hat frames in any material desired.
 Attractive Showing of Ready-to-Wear Hats
 Headquarters for the largest assortment of hat trimmings and velvets.
 New fall styles in Ladies' Hat Frames now being displayed.
 Old Velvet and Plush Hats re-covered on the new style frames.
 Beaver, felt, and velour hats reblocked into any style desired.
Ladies' Capital Hat Shop
 508 11th Street N. W.
 Our Work Is Our Reputation Phone Main 8322

Washington Gas Light Company
 (Sales Department)
 419 Tenth Street Northwest